Check out what we're doing.

Religion-Our lessons this week focused on ways that we show our love for God. Students understand that God gives us so many wonderful things. They realize that at Mass we can praise and thank God for all we have.

Reading We spent time learning how to pick "good fit" books. Students learned the five finger rule to follow when choosing books to read. We also discussed why a good reader chooses certain books. Students selected 5 books for their book basket. These are books students will read during silent reading or when they finish work.

Math Students are developing their math vocabulary. The words plus, equal and sum were introduced. These words were identified in addition problems. Students worked with a ten-frame to create sums of 10 in different ways. Students also learned strategies to find the missing addend in an addition problem.

Writing Students learned five facts about a sentence. They realize that a sentence is a complete thought. They also discovered that a sentence must have a naming part and action part. We will continue to work on sentence structure next week.

Social Studies We discussed different people that work in our communities. Students learned about the important work that these people contribute to the community.

Special Notes

I enjoyed meeting so many of the grandparents and special guests. I hope they enjoyed spending time at school with your child.

Your child will bring home their reading calendar on Monday. You will receive a note with the calendar explaining the required assignments. Please contact me if you have any questions or concerns.

We will also begin our spelling program next week. Students will receive their spelling list every Monday. They will take a weekly test every Friday.

Scholastic book orders should be submitted online by September 13th.

Looking Ahead...
